So Much Can Happen in ONE Night During a Windstorm

1. Common Wind Damage:

- House—roof shingles, foundation, driveway pavement, etc.
- Trees falling on your car, buildings, fence, etc.

2. How to Protect Yourself from Wind Damage

- Do inspections of your house and property regularly.
- Try to keep your house and property clean as possible.
- Consult a professional if needed for inspections and repairs.
- Have adequate coverage in case the inevitable happens. Talk to your agent.
- Read our blog post here for more windstorm tips.

3. Power Outages

• Read our blog for what to do if your power goes out.

DID YOU KNOW... insurance can cover wind damage?

Wind is typically a covered peril on your homeowners policy. Examples of wind damages could be: shingles being torn from the roof, a tree falling on your home, and an object getting blown by wind into your home (patio furniture, trampolines, etc.).
